

PIONEERS ARE AT CAMP MILLS

Meers Visit Homes Here—Go to Upton Today for Discharge—Last of Regiment Due in Boston Soon.

Captain D. J. Cassidy, Co. E, of the 51st Pioneer Infantry, 47 Hoffman street; Lieutenant Charles R. Dixon, Lieutenant Martin Netter and Sergeant Edward Netter, who arrived overseas Thursday, came to Kingston on the 5 o'clock West Shore train, Friday, on a 24 hour leave of absence, and returned to Camp Mills this morning on the 3:45 train, after visiting their families. Today they will go to Camp Upton where the infantrymen who came over on the Wilhelmnia, expect to be discharged from service within five days. The band is at Camp Mills, and the five bandsmen, Harry Maiseholder, Jacob Mollott, Charles Weed, Bob Isemann and William White of this city, are with them. The Milk Battalion, being Companies M, L and K, of the 51st Pioneers, are on the Wilhelmnia and will land at Boston in a few days. The Fifty-first is the only New York regiment that went to France that returned complete, the only transfers being from one company to another.

The Fifty-first left for France July 10, 1918, and was sent to the Toul sector, taking part in the St. Mihiel drive. On September 26, the regiment was sent to "St. Bossart," where it remained until after the armistice was signed. November 26, as a part of the army of occupation, it moved into Germany, established headquarters at Cochem, a great part of the regiment being quartered at Coblenz. Before going overseas, the entire regiment was quartered at Spartanburg.

TRAVEL VERY HEAVY FRIDAY

Thousands passed Through Kingston, Gateway To Vacation Land, The Newspaper Train, Even, Carrying 600.

Railroad and steamboat travel, as well as that by automobile reached its top notch Thursday and Friday to and through this city. Trains of several coaches arriving from New York and Albany on the West Shore railroad were loaded and some of them were run in two sections. The U. & D. carried immense crowds to the Catskills also running two section trains, the passengers coming off the Day Line steamers, and off the West Shore railroad, while many came over the river on the Transport from the N. Y. Central trains. The trolley cars transferred hundreds to the O. & W. trains at the Fair street station, for points in the towns of Hurley, Marlborough, Rochester and Wawarsing, while many went through this city, to go by the O. & W. to Sullivan county. The Walkill Valley railroad took many off the West Shore for Lake Mohonk, Lake Minnewaska and summer resorts in the town of New Paltz. Friday morning the up night boat of the Central-Hudson Line had a big passenger list, the people going up the U. & D. and the O. & W. railroads. The newspaper train from New York Friday morning, on the West Shore had about six hundred passengers aboard, a great many getting off at the Union station. The train was an hour late in arriving. A great majority of the people who went in to the country and to the Catskills Thursday and Friday will remain over for from one to two weeks, now that the summer vacation season has arrived. Hundreds of touring cars, many loaded with from five to ten passengers, men, women and children, passed up Broadway Thursday afternoon and evening enroute for the Catskill sections in Ulster and Greene counties, and the Hotel Sagoy and the Eagle Hotel were filled up early in the evening with guests for the night. Rooming houses in the neighborhood were filled up with the overflow.

The Peace of Paris.

At the popular service on Sunday evening in the St. James' Methodist Church, the pastor, Dr. Baragwanath, will have as his subject, "The Peace of Paris." There will be attractive music. The whole service will take less than an hour. The attendance at these services has been very satisfactory. Last Sunday night the timely topic was "Social Unrest and its Cure."

On Sunday the boys were awakened an hour later. After a pancake breakfast, the usual tent inspection took place. At 10:30 chapel service was held in camp. The Sunday noon dinner will long be remembered by all. It consisted of fried chicken, potatoes, peas, bread and butter. The boys got away with nearly 30 pounds of fowl and maybe they didn't eat. In fact, every day they eat three times as much as they would at home. The cook says he thought he was hired to cook for a bunch of boys, but finds they have appetites like men.

Sunday afternoon a hike was taken to the top of the mountain back of camp. The view of the Hudson Valley was well worth the trip to the top. It was a clear, beautiful day and the boys set for a long time enjoying the beautiful scenery. In the evening twenty-five of the boys went to the village to attend the Methodist Church.

There has not been a single case of sickness in camp and the boys say that the fellows back home will wish they had been at the camp when they hear about the good time they are having.

Tuesday night several of the boys went "snipe" hunting. The night was ideal for such a chase. Those who held the bags for the snipe were E. Powley, F. Anderson, E. Carey and J. Haver. The boys think that their collection will look good in the Boys' Department rooms, adding greatly to the decorations.

A quail tournament is in progress and some of the future events are a two team relay to the village of Highland and back, baseball league, camp fires, etc.

Another Queen Esther Social.

The girls of the Queen Esther Circle of the St. James M. E. Church held another of their delightful dime socials this week at the home of Miss Julia Neice, Washington avenue, the hostesses being Miss Neice and the Misses Bertha Magee and Julia Wager. The next of these pleasant dime socials will be held at the home of Miss Edith Du Pion, No. 15 Lafayette avenue, on the evening of Tuesday, July 15th. In addition to promoting sociability among the young people, these socials are held to raise money to go toward the support of the little girl at the Waits De Peyer Home at Tiroli, whom the Queen Esther Circle takes care of.

The feature of the games was the batting of the Kingston judge. City Marshal Art Rice was also there with the witness, and both he and the judge slammed the pill for two batters. The games were staged in Catskill.

BIG CIRCUS UNLOADS SUNDAY AND PARADES MONDAY MORNING

Will Be First Attraction to Show at New Kingston Amusement Park—Line of March to Be Followed by Parade.

Earning Their Way into SELLSELOTO CIRCUS.

Monday is circus day in Kingston. The show will arrive during the early hours of Sunday morning and as rapidly as possible the horses and the elephants and camels and the animal cages and the band wagons and all the other paraphernalia of the big show will be unloaded and hurried out to the new fair grounds, where the tent city will be erected and preparations made for Monday morning's preliminary street parade and the two lively performances that are scheduled to follow.

The first performance takes place at 2 o'clock and the final one at 8 p. m. The doors will be opened an hour earlier to afford visitors an opportunity to visit the circus zoo and to hear the band concert by the Sellsefoto military band under the direction of C. L. Brown. The performance will open with a new and attractive spectacle which has been picturesquely named, "The Birth of the Rainbow." The coloring and beauty of costuming which the title of the pageant suggests is said to be achieved in a way that makes the display a positive delight to the eye.

The three-ring arenic performance that follows offers, it is declared, a constant succession of circus thrills, interspersed with wholesome comedy by a big company of happy-go-lucky clowns. There are acrobats and gymnasts and aerialists in generous numbers; there are three herds of cleverly trained elephants and other acting animals; there are bucking broncos and whirling riders; there is posturing in the rings and on the stages, with a great company of aerial butterfly dancers and noted troupes of flying folks, and perilous feats on swaying wires, and a children's circus, with almost human monkeys and dogs and ponies, and a baby elephant to set the heart of the kiddies fluttering, and scores of other displays.

The parade is scheduled to leave the grounds at 10:30 sharp. The route is as follows: From the fair grounds to North Front street, to Wall street, to Maiden Lane, to Broadway, to Delaware avenue, to Hasbrouck avenue, to Prince street, to Broadway, to Clinton avenue, to North Front street and return to the grounds.

An Electric Airplane.

One of the most modern and up-to-date minute window displays is that of the Kingston Gas & Electric Company on central Broadway. The display was arranged by Superintendent C. Rodman Stull. The center of the window space is taken up with an airplane model. The propeller is the wheel of an electric fan. A large sign in the center states, "Some Examples of Progress" and shows electric washing machines and other articles handled by the concern. The airplane makes a most attractive picture, and the display attracts much favorable attention from pedestrians.

DEATH PENALTY NOT FOR KAISER

London Paper Says he Will Be Lodged in Tower of London After Being Brought to England by Dutch Warship.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, July 5.—White Tower, the oldest part of the Tower of London, built by William the Conqueror, is being prepared for the ex-kaiser when he is placed on trial before an international court in London, the Daily Express stated today. Suitable furniture is being installed and rooms are being made ready to house attendants.

No difficulty will be raised by the Dutch government in delivering the former German emperor, the Daily Express understands. It is likely that he will be sent to the mouth of the Thames on board a Dutch warship and there turned over to the British authorities.

It has been decided, the Daily Express says, not to ask for the death penalty on account of opposition, some of which came from the United States.

WILSON TO STOP OVER IN N. Y.

To Land at Hoboken Tuesday, Be Welcomed By Smith at Carnegie Hall and Take Train For Capital.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Enroute To The United States With President Wilson, on board the U. S. S. George Washington, July 5.—(By Wireless to New York)—A revision was made in President Wilson's plans to-day which will enable him to pay a brief visit to New York city when he lands at Hoboken next Tuesday.

The president expects to go ashore shortly after noon and will proceed to Carnegie Hall, in New York city, where he will be formally welcomed by Governor Smith, of New York state. After a brief response Mr. Wilson will go to the Pennsylvania station and board a train for Washington.

The George Washington will be greeted outside of Ambrose Channel by the Atlantic fleet.

Secretary of War Baker, Secretary of the Navy Daniels, and other officials, will go down New York Bay on the battleship Pennsylvania and be transferred to the George Washington before the docks. The secretaries are expected to accompany the president from Hoboken to New York city by automobile.

The president has practically completed the outline of the message, which he will deliver to the joint session of congress next week.

It is generally understood that he will not attempt to reply to the allegations of the opposition. It is likely that he intends to outline exactly what the treaty and appendages mean and then allow the senate to proceed with its consideration of the pact.

So far as the administration is concerned, it can be said that the president is hopeful that the pact will be discussed in open sessions of the senate.

President Wilson witnessed an elaborate program of games on shipboard yesterday with soldiers and sailors participating. In the afternoon he delivered a patriotic address to a large gathering of officers and men of the ranks by the after hatches of the George Washington.

On Casualty List.

Charles H. Patterson, Shandaken, wounded seriously, appears in the casualty list sent out by the war department, on Friday.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Bar Harbor, Me., July 5.—The British dirigible, R-34 flying from Scotland to Mineola, N. Y., is believed to have come down at the south end of the Bay of Fundy.

The United States naval wireless station at Otter Cliff at 11:24 a. m. today received a message from the big trans-Atlantic air craft, asking for a destroyer to take the R-34 in tow.

The following message was received from the British dirigible R-34 at the U. S. Navy high powered wireless station at Otter Cliff:

"Could destroyer proceed to south end of Bay of Fundy to take his majesty's airship R-34 in tow?"

The message was addressed to the navy department at Washington and was immediately flashed over the land wires from the Otter Cliff station to Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

Boston, July 5.—Two swift United States destroyers, were ordered to proceed from the local navy yard this afternoon to the south end of the Bay of Fundy, to take into tow the British dirigible R-34, believed to have been stalled in her trans-Atlantic flight from Scotland to Mineola, L. I.

New York, July 5.—The Bay of Fundy, where the British dirigible R-34 came to grief lies between Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. It is 140 miles long, the southern extremity being near the coast of Maine. The R-34 was evidently following the coast line in a southeasterly direction towards New York.

Roosevelt Field, Mineola, L. I., July 5.—Within sight of the American mainland and with victory almost won, the giant British dirigible, the R-34, is reported this afternoon to be stalled between New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, over the Bay of Fundy. She was on the last lap of her history-making trans-Atlantic flight and within a few more hours would have made Mineola where thousands of persons were waiting to receive her.

The naval wireless station here picked up a message from the R-34 as follows:

"Flying over Nova Scotia. Strong head winds. Petrol running short. The need for a tow could only mean one thing. Officials here declared, and it is that the ship is in serious trouble. They believe that either her petrol has run clear, or its shortage being indicated in the last message, or that serious motor trouble has been experienced. Officials were satisfied that the lives of the crew were in no danger. They believe the big ship is floating lazily over the waters of the bay unable to move."

The south end of the Bay of Fundy lies approximately 400 air miles from New York, so that the big dirigible completed practically seven eighths of her journey. It is roughly estimated that she must have travelled 3,000 miles.

HERE AND THERE ABOUT THE TOWN

The Stroller Hears a Variety Of Matters Discussed Including Democratic Candidates for Mayor and Tales Of Our Local Law Makers.

"Well, I see the common council has adopted another theater ordinance," remarked the customer, as he rearranged the bandage on his finger, a slight memento of the glorious Fourth, and a firecracker that exploded prematurely.

"So I hear," replied the busy barber. He added, "were you up to the council meeting?"

"No, were you?" asked the customer.

"Didn't have the time," replied the barber, "but one of the aldermen was just in getting a shave and told a good yarn."

"Shoot it along," said the customer.

"It seems the health board bills caused some discussion from Aldermen Kelly, Mann and Schlip," continued the barber, "and they also wanted to know what the duties of the aldermen consisted of."

"Alderman Connelly, of theater ordinance fame, gave a very able explanation, and told of the good it meant to Kingston to have a laboratory."

"Speaking of the aldermen," interrupted the customer, "reminds me that some one was saying that Alderman Mann was going to be a candidate for alderman-at-large."

"That's news to me," replied the barber.

"Heard anything more about Democratic candidate for mayor?" queried the customer.

"I heard some talk among downtown Democrats of trying to induce James F. Dwyer to allow his name to be used in case Bernard Donovan, the boat builder, refuses to consider the proposition."

"How does the Jeffersonian Club feel on that question?" asked the customer.

"I don't believe they have held a meeting yet," replied the barber.

"Changing the subject," said the customer, "are you going to the circus?"

"Sure," replied the barber with a grin, "the kids want to see it."

The Other Man.

An old Irish coachman had just finished a wet and cold drive. "Now, Pat," said the young lady he had driven, "drink this glass of toddy, and you'll feel like another man. Later on, when preparing to start on the return journey, Pat said, "Sure, and the other man would like a drop of something hot!"

Compressed Atmosphere.

If the atmosphere of the earth were compressed to the density of water, it would occupy a space of 1,900,000 cubic miles. The idea may be expressed more vividly when it is said that the whole gaseous envelope of the earth, if compressed to this degree, would fill a tank 100 miles high, 100 miles wide and 100 miles long.

SERVICE STATION

Neighbors

This is more than a place where you can get your battery charged.

It is more than a store where you can buy a new battery.

As we look at it we are neighbors of yours, and we want you to feel the same way about it. A good way to get acquainted is to drive around and have us test your battery with a hydrometer. If you like, we'll show you how to do it, and tell you the few simple rules that ought to be followed to keep the charge up to 1.285, where it belongs.

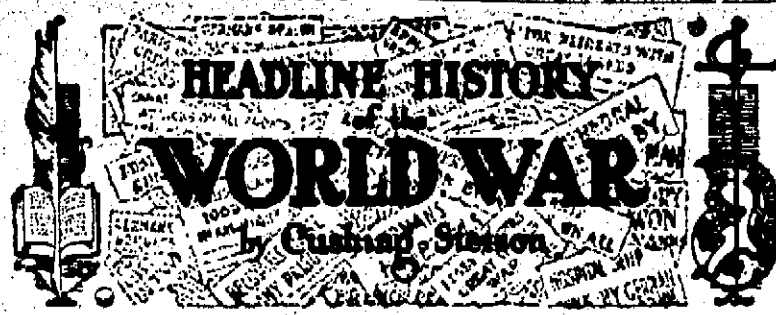

If yours is a new car with a Willard Battery, be sure to drive in right away so that we can register the battery and give you the benefit of Willard 90-day battery insurance.

The Goodrich Square—

Standard Measure of

Tires

The one sure way to tell what a tire is worth as it stands in the store of a dealer, is to divide its price in dollars and cents by the miles of the adjustment that backs it up.

Then square it on the GOODRICH SQUARE, Standard Measure of True Tire Value.

Square its price against Goodrich List Prices on the short branch of THE SQUARE.

Square its mileage adjustment against the Goodrich More-Mileage Adjustment on the long branch of THE SQUARE—6,000 miles for Fabrics; 8,000 for Silvertown Cords.

If you pay more than the Goodrich List Prices—always the same to you, and everywhere else everywhere—the tire overcharges you. If you take less than the Goodrich MORE - MILEAGE Adjustment, you short-mileage yourself.

When you have thus measured tires by THE GOODRICH SQUARE, you understand all this talk you hear everywhere about the economy of Goodrich Tires.

You understand the message that's in the air, spread by word of mouth wherever automobiles go, "Goodrich has THE TIRES."

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 5, 1919.

Two-cent letter postage is a welcome accompaniment of peace.

A "peace of violence"—of stern restraints and restrictions—is scarcely avoidable after a war of devility.

Missing the steamboat train for Southampton at London the other day, a woman chartered an airplane and "flew over and passed the train as if it had been tied," reaching the goal far ahead. The day of the air taxi seems to be already at hand.

Of all the yellow-streaked slackers the profiteering breed are the worst. The Boston wool brokers who made a million and a quarter dollars in less than a year out of war prices and then tried to cheat the government out of its share, assessed for war purposes, richly deserved the sentence they received.

Five hundred women of Indiana have notified Congress that corsets should not be taxed as a luxury because they are a necessity. Whether technically a necessity of not, the protestants could unanswerably argue that the corset tends to "keep the figure" which otherwise in some instances might suggest a too full bag with a mere string round the middle.

According to a Department of Labor survey, 1,300,000 aliens are preparing to emigrate from the North to Europe, taking with them about four billion dollars. It is proposed to replace them with negroes from the South, continuing a movement of the blacks already in progress. This means more race problem for the North and more labor shortage for the South.

LA FOLLETTE NOT WANTED.

The protest of the Ocean Grove Hotel Association against the appearance of La Follette at that New Jersey seaside resort is significant as well as interesting. It is an indication that a very large part of the public is disposed to do what the Senate of the United States failed to do. The Senate declined to expel or ostracize its member guilty of disloyal utterances. Nor did the Department of Justice take any action, although the Wisconsin Senator's utterances were fully as disloyal and did far more harm than those of a number of persons who were jailed during the war. But the people have not forgotten and the action at Ocean Grove reveals a widely prevalent attitude. Patriotic Americans distrust La Follette with good reason and want none of him.

Of course, it is not to be supposed that La Follette really wished to put the interests of Germany above those of his country. At the outset he wanted to please his German-born constituents by keeping America out of the war and with prodigious self-confidence he thought he could do this. So he persisted even after performance became rank disloyalty. An enormous egotism seemed to permeate him not only that he was infallible but that his power was unlimited. Other "atfoul men" left off when it was too late to say anything more, but it was not so with the stubborn and self-satisfied La Follette. The people dislike and distrust him all the more because he has never confessed that he was wrong. He still courts the ostracism of patriotic Americans and he will receive in full measure what he deliberately invited.

THE COST IN LIVES.

Governor Allen of Kansas will not be satisfied with the official statement of the American casualties in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, but he will be forced to admit that, though they were heavy, the percentage does not equal that of Union Army losses during the Civil War and is much less than that of other nations fighting in the late war. The American casualties in the 47 days of the Meuse-Argonne offensive were only 10 per cent of the men engaged while in the Union Army 10 per cent were actually killed or died of disease, and in the late war from 20 to 25 per cent of the Allied armies were killed or died. The American casualties in the late war were only 2 per cent of the men engaged.

overseas, 2,086,000; our men who actually fought in France, 1,300,000. Thirteen battles were fought by American troops during 200 days. The American battle deaths were 50,000; wounded, 236,000; deaths from disease, 50,991. Total deaths in our army, 112,422. Of our forces 13 per cent came from the regular army, 10 per cent from the National Guard, and 77 per cent from the draft. The total battle deaths for all belligerents are estimated at 7,450,000, divided as follows: Russia, 1,700,000; Germany, 1,600,000; France, 1,385,300; Great Britain, 800,000; Austria, 800,000; Italy, 330,000; Turkey, 250,000; Serbia and Montenegro, 125,000; Belgium, 102,000; Rumania, 100,000; Bulgaria, 100,000; United States, 48,900; Greece, 7,000; Portugal, 2,000. America's losses were comparatively light and we may consider ourselves fortunate.

MOST ONE-SIDED FIGHT IN HISTORY

Willard a Punching Bag for Dempsey for Three Rounds and Then Ordered Sponge Tossed In—Willard Rained Blood Over Those Near Ring:

(By Tad.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Toledo, O., July 5.—With his right eye closed tight, his mouth torn, Jess Willard dragged his weary legs to his corner at the end of the third round with Jack Dempsey here yesterday and threw up the sponge. It was the first time in the history of the ring that a heavyweight champion refused to toe the mark with the challenger.

Beaten to a frazzle, outpunched and outfought at every turn, the big fellow was a sad sight. He almost stumbled and fell as he headed for his corner, but Walter Monaghan held him until the chair was put in place. Willard could not see out of his right eye, his mouth was purple and blood pouring down his purple trunks as he fell into his chair.

He looked around for a friendly face. He met Monaghan's. He asked what round it was. They told him the fourth was coming. They brushed his puffed and bloody face, washed his hair a bit and just about as the timekeeper was to ring the bell again Willard ordered his seconds to toss in the sponge.

There never was such a one-sided fight as that which was put on here yesterday. Jess Willard may have been a great man, but he was nothing but a punching bag yesterday. He didn't land more than twice on Dempsey and the blows didn't affect the young fellow at all.

Dempsey was very cool all through the fight and went at it in a very business-like manner. He fought a clean fight, a clever fight, and at no time did he look like a loser.

Willard was smiling as he toed the mark, but Dempsey with his black hair and eyebrows scowled like a mad bull. He had his head lowered and he looked at Willard's mid-riff instead of his eyes.

Willard lead lightly with his long left. It caught Dempsey high up on the cheek. Jack jumped away. Once again Willard lead with his left and Dempsey danced away, circling, twisting, then there was a switch and a thud. Dempsey skidded and peeked his left to Willard's head. The punch brought a lump like a robin's egg over Jess's right eyebrow. He was wild-eyed, following the dancing Dempsey.

The latter still looking at Willard's gloves, backed away towards his own corner and as Willard started to lead left with that wicked left again. It landed flush on Willard's chin. He rocked a bit, opened his eyes and then slowly settled to the floor.

There was a wild howl. Willard was badly dazed. He sort of set there for four or five seconds. As Record tolled off the count he got up at five, but had no idea where he was. Dempsey was leaning on the ropes. Before Willard was fully set a right hander crashed against chin and over he went again. He was still in Dempsey's corner. Everyone was wild, hats and cushions were sailing through the air. Record walked over and started counting again.

Willard, on his hands and knees, looked up at Record, but his expression was that of a Dodo. He was a sad looking sight. His right eye was puffed and blood trickled down his chin from a bust on the mouth.

At the count of five he got to his feet again and leaned against the ropes. Kearns was yelling to Dempsey to take his time. Jack didn't seem to be excited at all. He walked up to Willard and socked him again. This time a right hander flush on the mouth sent him sprawling. Blood poured from his cut mouth. He sat there on the floor in a very indifferent manner. Record started to count again and Dempsey stood over the fallen giant in a threatening manner.

Willard waved him away with his right hand, but Jack didn't back up a step. Record got to the count of eight before Willard was up this time. He then backed away along the ropes towards a neutral corner. Dempsey kept him there and rained rights and lefts on him. He ripped at Jess's stomach and then switched to the head. Willard's face was a sight, but he took his beating like a man. He swung viciously at Dempsey and landed on top of his head. Dempsey rushed like a bull and dropped Willard for the fourth time. A left to the chin did it this time.

Willard dropped heavily. He tried to get up, but toppled back again. Record counted again, and once more the big fellow got up to his feet. Dempsey walked right into the big man without the least fear. He tore for the body and punched at least ten hard rights and lefts into the stomach. They were back in that neutral corner again. Dempsey dropped Willard for the fifth time in this corner with a right hand on the jaw. Willard fumbled the ropes as he fell, trying to save himself.

He smiled as he sat there looking at the referee. Blood was running down his chin, as he lay with one arm over the lower rope. He got to his feet again but was unsteady. He fell once against the ropes as Dempsey started to beat him. Willard was simply beaten to the floor with five or six lefts and rights for the sixth time.

Willard was a sight by this time. His right eye was completely closed. The right side of his face puffed and there was a rip under his right eye. He arose once more and fell on Dempsey, who tore after him again. Blood from Willard's face trickled down Dempsey's back. They were both covered with it by this time. Dempsey looked to be tired from the punishment. He had punched himself weary.

Once again Willard was dropped with a right.

He set down with a terrible thud. He sort of lay on a sally number. His bloody face was battered almost beyond recognition. People were yelling "Stop the fight," as Record walked over to count again. Willard was out. He was sitting on the floor with his head dangling on the ropes. He was so dazed he could neither move hand or foot. Record might have counted a thousand.

It looked as though he had been counted out. There was a terrible lot of excitement. Willard still sat there as the timekeepers and seconds howled and waved. People were cheering frantically for Dempsey.

Record was called to the side of the ring during the hubbub.

Willard was helped to his corner by his three seconds. He wasn't walking. He sat in his chair while Dempsey, thinking he had won, started down the aisle. Jack Kearns rushed into the ring.

Record waved to Dempsey as the winner and then discovered that the bell had raved Willard. Bill Tate rushed down the aisle, got Dempsey and brought him back.

People asked one another what the trouble was.

Policemen rushed up to the ring waving clubs.

Dempsey's backers crowded around the ring and suddenly the bell rang again.

The fight was on once more.

Willard was tired as he came to the center. Dempsey almost knocked his head loose from his shoulders with a right uppercut. Willard reeled, but the ropes held him up. Dempsey hit him with everything he had, but could not drop him again.

It was a brutal exhibition. Dempsey with lowered head, punched him with both hands at any chance he chose. It was a question of how much Willard could take without being killed. He was knocked from post to post, his bloody head bouncing this way and that continuously.

It was so uneven and one-sided that many spectators turned their heads away.

Both Willard and Dempsey were covered with blood. Dempsey had not been hurt, but his back was streaked with rich, red blood from Willard's nose and mouth.

The bell sounded as they were pushing each other in a clinch in Willard's corner. Jess was tired and sick as he sat down. The bright sun brought out the bloody marks on the canvas. Both men's gloves were soaked with it too. Dempsey's white trunks were spotted with it. Reporters at the ringside had blood on their hats and hands. Willard was raining blood all over the place.

He looked round-shouldered as he came up for the third round. His battered face was an awful sight. The whole right side of his face was puffed up twice its normal size.

He fought the third round as well as he could and took an unmerciful licking.

He was punched all over the ring, but did not fall. He reeled, grabbed the ropes, and fell on Dempsey, but he did not go to the floor.

All during the third round Willard bled like a stuck pig.

He took the pasting like a soldier, but he was beaten beyond all hope. There was not a chance in the world for him.

Dempsey went about his work quietly and carefully. Willard at times tried his famous right uppercut, but he never landed it. When he missed he ran into stiff lefts and rights that must have scrambled his brains.

All he did was to take punch after punch, minute after minute and never land one.

Finally the gong sounded again. Dempsey hurried into his corner and sat down. Willard, weak, tired and sick, dragged his weary form towards his corner. He had just about got there when his knees sagged and he stumbled against the ropes. Monaghan and Hemple grabbed him. He was beaten to a frazzle.

It was then that he asked what round it was and asked that the towel be thrown in.

The arguments are going here good and strong. What round did Dempsey win in? Some say four rounds, as they had already fought three. Others say he won in the third as the fourth had not started.

The three round boys have the better of the argument. Willard sat in his corner after the third round, but before the bell rang starting the fourth he threw up the sponge. It will go down in the record book as a three round fight.

Usual Waits at Ferry Friday.

A Kingston party of four who came from Poughkeepsie in an automobile Friday, expecting to take the 6:40 afternoon ferry from Rhinecliff across the river to this city, were compelled to wait from that time to 10:30 o'clock at night before they could get on the Transport. They were the 1918 auto in line and were the first party to get on board on the 10:45 trip. It was following their car on the ferry. Several of the auto had children passengers, and the four hours' wait was a tedious one. The ferryboat made trips at intervals of 35 minutes each.

PARKS CROWDED FOR HOLIDAY

Various Programs For Celebration of Independence Day Went Off Uneventfully In Torrid Weather.

"Seasonable weather," was the reply of the weather man to the many complaints that Fourth of July was hot, and it was hot, but that did not keep away the thousands that visited the city's recreation centers that day, and the other thousands that passed through by automobile and Hudson River Day Line boats. There were very few accidents, if any, from children being injured by firecrackers, and hot weather to the contrary it was an ideal Fourth of July. The largest crowds of the day were at Kingston Point Park and Forsyth Park, where municipal exercises were held in the evening.

An added attraction on the Fourth was the arrival in the air of Lieut. Benjamin Adams, son of E. G. Adams of Pine street, who reached Kingston at noon that day in a big army plane and sailed around over the upper part of the city and Forsyth Park, where the Clinton Avenue M. E. Sunday school, of which the lieutenant is a member, was holding the annual outing. He did not land, however, much to his own as well as thousands of others disappointment, as he was unable to find a suitable place to alight safely.

Fourth of July dawned bright and clear in Kingston with a blue sky overhead, and with a little breeze blowing, but as the sun gradually crept higher in the sky his warm rays began to heat up the earth and those on it. One of the coolest places, if that were possible, was Kingston Point Park, and from early afternoon to late at night the big amusement park was jammed with people.

At Kingston Point Park. By auto, by trolley, and by boat came thousands to the park, and when at 5 o'clock President Samuel M. Watts of the common council started the municipal exercises the park was filled with a good natured happy throng.

A brief and interesting patriotic program was carried out at the Point with the address delivered by Alfred D. Van Buren, the invocation by the Rev. Mr. Moot of the Ponckhockie Church, while Harry Clearwater sang "Dear Little Boy of Mine," and a patriotic selection in a pleasing baritone voice.

Fireworks Followed. A display of fireworks followed the music and oratory, and it was good. The display consisted mostly of aerial bombs shot high in the air and bursting scattered countless red, white and blue stars through the sky.

Bath Beach Popular. Bath Beach was also popular, but owing to the fact that it was low tide all afternoon, there were not as many in bathing as was expected on such an extremely warm day.

Trolleys Were Crowded. The trolley line with its six cent fare must have cleaned up a fine little profit, for all day long it was necessary to run four trolley cars, two on each line, and even then there did not appear to be enough cars to handle the traffic at Kingston Point, as every car that left the park for home was packed and jammed with passengers hanging on like flies where ever they could secure a toe hold and a hand clasp.

Forsyth Park. At Forsyth Park there was another big crowd with the annual picnic and outing of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church under way all afternoon, and with municipal exercises and fireworks at the evening at the field presided in the evening at the exercises at Forsyth Park, and the display of fireworks there was the same practically as at Kingston Point. The arrangements for the day included band music at both parks which was furnished by the band of public works.

It Was a Great Day. In addition to the municipal fireworks, many throughout the city had their own display of fireworks, and stayed at home to shoot them off.

It was a great day in Kingston and was fittingly observed. If any one did not thoroughly enjoy themselves on the Fourth in Kingston, it was nobody's fault but their own.

Irwin Warns Intoxicant Sellers. Regene Irwin of this city, head of the internal revenue department, 14th district, announced Friday his department is prepared to take any action necessary to punish the sale of intoxicating liquors. Although no instructions have been received in regard to the sale of 2 1/2 percent beer, the internal revenue department, Mr. Irwin said, will prosecute any attempt by saloon keepers or liquor dealers to sell intoxicating liquors. A warning was issued to all dealers to keep strictly within the meaning of the law in this case. Mr. Irwin said no attempt would be made to stop the sale of beer until definite instructions had been received.

Union Summer Services. During July and August the First Presbyterian Church and First Baptist Church will hold union summer services. These services will begin on Sunday morning at half-past ten in the Presbyterian Church on Elmendorf street, when the Rev. Arthur S. Cole, pastor of the Baptist church, will preach on "A New Heaven and a New Earth." The services will be held in the Presbyterian Church during July and in the Baptist Church during August, when Dr. Putnam Chad, pastor of the Presbyterian Church will preach. No evening services will be held during the summer.

ONE KILLED AND ANOTHER INJURED

Ernest Keller of Ruby Died of Injuries Received When His Auto Tipped Over—Leaford of Modena Hit by an Auto.

Ernest Keller, about 55 years old, a farmer at Ruby, died at the Kingston City Hospital shortly after 5 o'clock Fourth of July afternoon as a result of injuries sustained when his automobile tipped over, and the condition of Sidney Leaford of Modena, who was struck by an automobile the same afternoon, is still serious.

Mr. Keller was driving his Ford car on the back road known as the King's highway, leading from Leeks Mills to Mt. Marlon, and near the covered bridge a fire exploded and the car tipped over, pinning Mr. Keller under it. He was rushed to the hospital by Dr. Luther Emerick of Saugerties, who was passing at the time of the accident. Keller's chest was crushed and he was unconscious when he reached the hospital. Dr. F. A. Johnston, Dr. E. E. Norwood and Dr. Emerick did everything possible to relieve his sufferings, but he was beyond human aid.

There were five others in the car at the time, his son-in-law, Herman Beecher, and wife, their two children, and a woman whose name was not ascertained, but who received a broken collar bone. The others escaped with slight injuries.

Leaford Hit by Auto. Sidney Leaford of Modena, while walking in the road in the village, was struck by an auto said to be owned in Rosendale Plains. He was hurried to the Kingston City Hospital, where it was found that he had sustained a scalp wound, a fractured elbow, a broken nose and three broken ribs, as well as other injuries. His condition was still serious this morning.

Those were the only two accident cases taken to the hospital on the Fourth, except that of Mrs. Markle, who sustained a fractured skull by a fall.
